Basics of Growing Garlic: Give it Space, Feed it and Weed it!

In late fall, 3–4 weeks before the ground freezes, prepare a nitrogen-rich well-groomed seedbed. Garlic grows best in well-drained soils that are high in organic matter with a neutral pH. Consider getting a soil test to help you apply nutrients optimally. To make things easy for yourself, prepare beds with our 3G Greener Garlic Grower (see page 45). Garlic is a heavy feeder and needs space. Break up the bulb and plant cloves 6–10" apart, pointed side up, with the base about 3" deep. Mulch with 4–6" of hay, leaves or straw. If you are determined for some reason to skip the mulch, plant cloves 5–6" deep.

In spring, move the mulch to free any struggling spears, then replace it to keep moisture even and to help suppress weeds. Consider supplementing with a quick-release nitrogen source like blood meal. Maintain even moisture levels during the season.

In midsummer, the scapes of hardnecks will begin to unfurl and stand up. Leave them on and get somewhat smaller bulbs plus bulbils, or cut them off for larger bulbs at harvest.

In mid-late summer, allow the soil to dry somewhat about a week before harvest. Check bulb growth when the bottom leaves are yellow and 5–6 leaves are still green, late July to early August for us in central Maine. Harvest bulbs before cloves begin to separate. Use a garden fork to loosen the soil and lift gently.

Tie and hang to cure in a well-ventilated place, protected from sun and rain, until dry. Do not field-cure.

To store, trim roots, trim tops to within 1" of the bulb, rub off loose skins and any dried dirt, and store in a cool dry place.

Seed Garlic Allium sativum

The bulb size, the skin color, the flavor, and the size and number of cloves are partly determined by genetics, and partly by soil and weather. Our size standard for a seed garlic bulb is 2" diameter, but we reserve the right to ship smaller garlic in difficult crop years.

Fedco requires every lot of garlic to test negative for both garlic bloat nematode and white rot. See our website for details.

All our garlic is hardy Zones 3-8.

Hardneck garlic has a hard stalk in the center of the bulb, and (the vast majority of the time) only one ring of cloves. Plant grows an edible scape, a tall leafless stalk with a flower-like top. Not braidable, but can be tied in attractive bundles and hung.

Cut off the scape before it uncurls to get the best bulb size.

Not easy on a commercial scale, but on a smaller scale it's not much work, plus fresh tops are great in salads, stir-fries, pickles, pesto!

If you leave the tops on, the below-ground bulb will likely be smaller, but you'll get a membrane full of little bulbils, which you can plant if so inspired (see next page).

Hardnecks are closer to wild garlic, and have a greater range of character and more complex flavor than softneck. Hardnecks are much hardier, thus recommended for cold climates.

Softneck garlic (not listed in this catalog but may become available on our website) produces multiple rings of cloves and a soft braidable top. Softneck types have mostly lost the ability to produce a stalk with flowering parts—but sometimes they bolt and produce extra "cloves" in the stem. Growers like softneck varieties for their extra-long shelf life in cold storage.

Porcelain Garlic

This hardneck type produces 3–6 very large cloves with tight porcelain-white skins. Excellent storage. Huge cloves are wonderful in the kitchen and perfect for production pesto-making or baking whole. Scapes form arches, curls and loose coils, and develop hundreds of tiny grain-sized bulbils. Slower propagation than other hardnecks; 20–35 cloves per pound.

Georgian Crystal - This fine Porcelain type is sure to please those who desire large cloves. Similar in flavor to German Extra-Hardy or Music. When eaten raw, a bit less bite than Georgian Fire. Stores well into winter. Both are Maine Grown.

Eco-grown indicates crops grown without chemical pesticides, fungicides, herbicides or fertilizers. The growers use organic practices but do not choose to pursue certification.

Propagating Garlic with Bulbils

A mature scape will form a cluster of little bulbils. Depending on type, the bulbils are as small as rice grains (Porcelains) or as large as peas (Rocambole). You can propagate hardneck garlic from these bulbils, but it takes 2–3 years to get a mature head. If you have the time, propagating from bulbils is a thrifty way to increase your seed stock, and since bulbils don't carry soil-borne diseases, you can be sure this stock is clean.

In fall, sow the bulbils 1" deep and 1" apart in a garden bed and mulch well with hay or leaves. In spring, remove the mulch. In late summer (when you harvest your regular garlic crop), dig up the plants in your bulbil patch and cure them with your other garlic. The plants will have formed a single marble, which you will replant in fall as you would regular seed garlic cloves. For some types, you may have to repeat this step another year before getting a proper head of garlic with individual cloves.

Life is long — plant bulbils!

Marbled Purple Stripe Garlic

Mottled purple striping on the skins of both clove and bulb. The leaves tend to be broader and bulbs tend to have fewer cloves than Purple Stripe varieties, though the cloves are often larger and more squat in appearance; 4–8 per bulb. This hardneck group produces bulbs that store well and are excellent for roasting. Scapes curl and coil dramatically; small bulbils. 30–50 cloves/lb.

Chesnok Red Highly productive and form exceptionally large bulbs if conditions are favorable. Excellent for baking, though the flavor and depth of character shine most when sautéed, or raw in a vinaigrette. Stores well. Also known as Shvelisi, the name of the village in the Republic of Georgia where it was collected in the 1980s.

Rocambole Garlic

Hardneck type produces 5–13 medium-large cloves with tan, brown or reddish skins, slightly loose and relatively easy-peeling. A shorter shelf life than Porcelains, perhaps because the clove skins are looser, or because of a slight tendency to split cloves. Generally stores well through February, and—if well cured and in optimal storage—can store months longer. Some claim Rocamboles have the finest, richest flavor. Scapes form tight coils. Forms 8–25 bulbils, the size of peas. 45–65 cloves/lb.

German Red Organic - Red-burgundy outer wrapper leaves and a lighter brown clove covering. Typically 6–12 cloves per bulb; double cloves are common. Stores well for up to 6 months, longer with good storage. Said to be a medieval strain of garlic brought to North America in the 1700s.

Phillips Organic - Produces 6–8 large cloves per head, with milder flavor than Russian Red. Substantial tan skins and purple mottled clove coverings make this an excellent keeper. We've had reports of bulbs keeping for more than a year in ideal storage. Large top-set bulbils are good for cooking and propagating. Plants are slow to emerge in spring, so don't be alarmed when these take an extra two weeks to appear. They mature quickly and finish up at the same time as other varieties we offer. Russian Red - Named for its mottled burgundy skin, said to have been brought to the Pacific Northwest by Russian immigrants in the early 1900s. Forms a ring of 6–12 large plump cloves around a central stalk. Keeps well for more than six months. "Delicious garlic flavor with no bitter aftertaste," says garlic aficionado M. Coffin. Both are Maine Grown.

Siberian - An heirloom variety known for its creamy cooked texture and robust well-rounded flavor that doesn't overpower other ingredients in a dish. Long storage potential of 6–7 months. Siberian garlic contains a very high amount of allicin, an antimicrobial compound that helps support the body's cholesterol levels and immune system. Grows very well in cold climates. Eco-grown in Maine.

Attractive purple-striped or -mottled bulbs and tan to brown clove skins. Fedco staffer Laura says, "Metechi is my new favorite garlic! Not only is it the best tasting, but it really does keep for more than 8 months. Ours is still firm and tasty in May." Eco-grown in Maine.

Sunchoke Helianthus tuberosus

Also known as Jerusalem Artichoke, these vigorous native perennial tubers have a flavor and texture somewhat like water chestnuts. Dig them in the fall and store for winter enjoyment in tight containers to conserve moisture, or dig in the spring as an early fresh vegetable. Each year it grows up into a 6-8' tall ornamental hedge topped with golden flowers shaped more like daisies than sunflowers.

Sunchokes are in the same plant family as artichokes but are more closely related to sunflowers. 'Jerusalem' is thought to be a corruption of girasole, the Italian word for sunflower; or perhaps early settlers to New England celebrated their "new Jerusalem" with this native wild food.

Growing Sunchokes

Store refrigerated until planting; do not allow tubers to dry out. Plant whole or cut into pieces with 1-2 eyes. Plant 3-4" deep, 12-14" apart.

One pound contains approximately 5 tubers, which can be cut into 18-20 pieces.

Depending on the growing season and when you harvest, tubers can reach 6" long, 3" across and weigh up to a pound.

Caution: plant sunchokes in an area that is easy to control; they will spread and are difficult to eradicate.

Canaan Cream - Originally brought to Maine in the 1970s from Binghamton, NY, by Fedco's founder's father, and Eco-grown ever since in Canaan, ME. This large white-fleshed, cream-skinned variety has been likened to the well-known Clearwater. Canaan tends to be knobbier, but is just as crisp and tasty. Eco-grown in Maine.

6241 A: 1# for $14.00
B: 3# for $36.00

Skorospelka - The product of a Soviet-era breeding program, Skorospelka produces a compact set of smooth tubers. Known locally as Red and Tan, each plant yields a fair number of tubers with reddish skin and, especially on young tubers, tan splotches. The considerable size of the blunt-ended tubers accounts for the excellent overall yield, while the relatively knob-free shape is popular with cooks. Eco-grown in Maine.

Sunchokes usually ship in late October and may be sent separately so you don't have to wait around for the rest of your order.

Indoor Bulbs

Amaryllis Hippeastrum

Originally from Central and South America and grows outdoors in Zones 9-10. We in frostier climates plant these easy-to-grow hybrid marvels indoors and enjoy blooms during the winter.

Remove the pollen-bearing anthers for a longer bloom time and a neater tabletop. With simple care and proper soil nutrients, amaryllis can return year after year. Planting and care instructions come with your order; you can also view them online: fedcoseeds.com/bulbs/amaryllis.htm

Our Amaryllis bulbs are of the largest size commercially available (36/38cm) and generally produce two or more flower stalks, each bearing 3-4 high-quality blooms.

This year all our Amaryllis bulbs are from Peru and will bloom up to two weeks earlier than bulbs from the northern hemisphere. This means you might get flowers by winter solstice if you pot them up in time.

Use the Force!

Growing bulbs indoors is an easy way to brighten up the cold winter days. Paperwhites and Amaryllis are easy to grow, and since they are native to warm climates, they don't require a period of chilling in order to bloom.

Many other bulbs in our catalog can be enjoyed during the winter months by the process of "forcing," which mimics the plant's natural dormancy period. For instructions on forcing bulbs like Scilla, Iris, Narcissus, Tulips and more, see page 14.

Jumbo Amaryllis

Jumbo bulbs produce graceful 6-8" blooms.

'Bolero' - Deep vibrant pink rounded petals have a seersucker texture. 20-25" tall. NEW!

6447 A: 1 for $17.50
B: 3 for $43.00

Indoor Bulbs

Double Amaryllis

Doubled petals provide a rich lush appearance in a 6–8" bloom. Large flowers can be top-heavy; use a stake or heavyweight pot to maintain stability, or plant slightly deeper.

'Double King' - Bright crimson-red double blooms. Full of petals, flowers can reach 8" across. Superb. 20–24" tall.

6439 A: 1 for $21.50

B: 3 for $59.00

Plant Amaryllis between October and May for flowering between December and June

Store the bulb in a dry dark cool area (45–50°) until you are ready to plant.

A few hours before planting, fill a 10–14 oz. glass with lukewarm water. Set the bulb on the rim and allow the roots to soak up some water.

Use a pot about 2" larger than the bulb. Place a layer of small rocks at the bottom of the pot to improve drainage. Cover the bulb to the "shoulders" with potting soil or compost. Press the soil firmly around the bulb.

Or, place the bulb in a clear vase with decorative stones or glass for ballast. Fill with water just high enough to keep the roots covered.

In the first few weeks, water sparingly. After the bud-stalk or leaves emerge, water more frequently. Direct sunlight and warm temps encourage proper growth. Amaryllis generally bloom 6–8 weeks after planting; the flowers last nearly 2 weeks.

Cut the flowerstalk close to the bulb after the flower fades. The leaves will continue to grow, and need regular sunshine in order to store enough nutrients to bloom again. Once the danger of frost has passed, the potted plant can go outdoors.

In late summer, stop watering and let the leaves die back (or let the first light frost kill them).

Before hard frost, bring the pots back inside. Keep dry in a cool dark place (like a basement or root cellar) for 8–12 weeks to simulate dormancy.

Bring the bulb back to room temp and begin watering again, about 6–8 weeks before the desired flowering time, and its cycle will begin again.

Paperwhites

Narcissus tazetta

Tall slender stems bear masses of fragrant delicate flowers. Must be grown indoors in Zones 1-6. Ziva, the muskiest paperwhite, is ready to grow, requiring no cold period; Erlicheer will bloom more reliably if allowed to start in a cool place.

You can stagger planting times to prolong the season.

If you don't plant the bulbs right away, store them in a cool dry dark place—but don't lose track of them or you may find them growing in their bags. The longer you store them, the more quickly they'll bloom once in a pot. October plantings usually bloom in 4–6 weeks; February plantings in as little as 2–3 weeks. 16–17cm.

'Erlicheer' - Creamy white petals with a highly doubled center flecked with yellow. Reminiscent of Cheerfulness both in appearance and fragrance, and pronounced Early Cheer. As many as 20 florets per stem. These can be a little finicky, so be sure to root them at the colder end of cool (45–50°) for best performance. 12–14" tall.

6585 A: 5 for $9.00

B: 20 for $34.00

C: 50 for $62.00

'Ziva' - White flowers bloom early with strong musky spicy fragrance. Has the most flowers per stem, and is one of the quickest to bloom once planted. If you don't plant until late winter, you'll find them growing in storage! 16–18" tall.

6587 A: 5 for $9.00

B: 20 for $34.00

C: 50 for $62.00

Planting Paperwhites

For a full appearance, group five to eight bulbs in a container 6" in diameter. Plant in pebbles or marbles, keeping bulbs above the waterline, or plant in soil for longer-lasting flowers. Allow to root in a cool (45–60°) dry dark place, for about 3 weeks, checking water level often. Some plantings may need staking to support heavy flower heads.

Research from Cornell shows that adding water with 5% alcohol after the shoots are 1–2" tall stunts their growth slightly, enough to prevent top-heavy tippiness, but not stunt their flowering. To learn about pickling, go to:

Flowering Onion Allium

This large genus is characterized by small six-petaled florets held in umbels—large or small, loose or tight. Sweet-smelling blooms make great cutflowers or dried winter arrangements; only if crushed will they smell like onion. Alliums are deer resistant and prefer full sun and well-drained soil, but can tolerate some shade. Fertilize in early spring to promote leaf and bulb growth. Leaves may die back before or during blooming. All types late spring to early summer (LS-ESu), except where noted.

Interplanting with Flowering Onions

Tall flowering onions like Globemaster and Mount Everest give vertical contrast and charm to any perennial garden. They look great in full sun in front of rangy rose bushes and will fade later as the nearby woodies fill out. We have a mass of Anemone canadensis that seems to tolerate the big alliums poking up through and then later melting back into the ground.

Medium Alliums

Drumsticks - A. sphaerocephalon - Dense ovoid 1–2" heads have a haunting color that's hard to describe: burgundy, dark reddish maroon, or maybe violet-red. Blooms lasted nearly a month in one cool moist Maine spring. Wonderful poking up through daylily foliage. 20–30" tall. E-MSu, Z4-8. 5cm/up.

6407 A: 10 for $4.50
B: 50 for $19.00

Spring Crocus

A classic for early spring color that also provides early food for bees. One of the most popular genera, they are welcome precursors of spring—colorful, long-lived, and easy to grow. Their waxy coat allows them to bloom even through a late snow. Flowers open wide in bright sun and close up at night and on grey days. Once established, crocus can spread by “cormlets” and seed in well-drained areas. Foliage of low-growing varieties fades before the grass needs mowing.

Stinzenplanten: Naturalizing with Bulbs

Underplant your lawn with naturalizing flower bulbs for a delightful carpet of early spring blooms! Stinzenplanten, a Dutch tradition, works best in dappled spring light beneath deciduous trees or at the forest’s edge where the grass is sparse from summer shade. In Maine it’s not uncommon to see a stinzenplanten of Snow Crocus, Chionodoxa or Squill. After a long winter, coming upon swaths of wee blooms is utterly enchanting.

The best bulbs for stinzenplanten are those that naturalize and multiply by underground bulblets. Some varieties may also self-seed over time. Once your plants are established, you can divide and replant them to expand your area. Most types of bulbs recommended for stinzenplanten are small and can be planted about 3–4" apart. A long planting auger attached to a drill will save your back when planting lots of bulbs. (See page 44 for planting augers.)

For your stinzenplanten to thrive, don’t mow the area until the flowers and foliage have died back naturally, about five weeks after blooming. The bulbs must complete their life cycles and photosynthesize so they can bloom the next year.

Forcing Bulbs for Indoor Winter Blooms

While paperwhites and amaryllis arrive ready to grow (see pages 8-9), all other bulbs must be chilled before planting indoors for winter blooms. This cooling process, called "forcing," mimics winter dormancy and coaxes the bulbs to bloom indoors.

Planting: Choose a pot or bowl shallow and wide enough to hold several bulbs. Place a layer of stones or other coarse material in the bottom of the pot, set the bulbs in roots down, then fill the container with fine stones, sand or light potting mix until the bulbs are about two-thirds covered. Soil that is too rich may cause the bulbs to rot. Water up to the base of the bulbs.

Cooling: After watering, cover the pot with plastic, punch a few holes for air circulation, and place in a dark place at 35–40°, like a garage, unheated basement, or root cellar. If you must put them in your fridge, keep them away from fruit! You can also put them outdoors, covered with 6–8" of mulch. Do not let them freeze or heat up.

Blooming: When leaf tips begin to emerge, set your pot in a cool place with plenty of indirect light. Do not place near a heat source; 50–65° is perfect. Keep the soil moist, but do not overwater.

When 3–5" of leaf growth has appeared, bring the pots into direct light to encourage flowering. Once blooms have appeared, remove pots from direct sun to keep blooms from fading quickly.

Springtime: Save the bulbs and plant them in the garden in spring, or let them go dormant in their pots and plant them in fall. They will not force well a second time.

Hyacinth Hyacinthus orientalis

More popular than either tulips or daffodils 140 years ago, their heady fragrance and range of colors make them a favorite in the spring. An old Persian proverb says that if you have two loaves of bread, you should sell one in order to buy hyacinths.

For best showing year after year, plant bulbs deep in rich well-drained soil in full sun and fertilize each fall. After the first year, the florets are slightly smaller and not as dense. Grow them in the border in close bunches or meandering drifts. Because a natural compound in the bulbs can cause "hyacinth itch," wear gloves during planting, and wash with cold water and plain soap after handling the bulbs. 8–12" tall. ES-MS, Z4-8. 15-16cm bulbs.

'Delft Blue' - Rich soft porcelain blue florets. This 1944 heirloom has that classic hyacinth color that goes with everything. Named for the city of Delft in the Netherlands, where there's a factory that's been making blue porcelainware for more than 350 years. Excellent for forcing indoors and very fragrant.

Best in full sun and well-drained soil. Short leaves at flowering, later grow to 10–12". Plant 4" deep and 1" apart for maximum color splash.

Iris danfordiae - An 1876 heirloom with canary yellow flowers and faint green speckles borne on a slender grey-green stem. Best when planted en masse. This low-growing iris thrives best in full sun with well-drained soils but is also well-suited to indoor forcing. 4-6" tall. ES, Z5-9. 6cm.

Interplanting with Dwarf Irises

Dwarf irises bloom very early, around the time of crocuses. It's surprising how little-known these miniature blooms are! They fit in everywhere. Plant under shade trees and among creeping thyme. Actually, plant them anywhere with well-drained soil. Visitors to your garden will inevitably exclaim, "What are those!?" when they first encounter these little charmers.

Dutch Iris Iris x hollandica

Taller than dwarf iris, Dutch iris are a complex cross of Iris xiphium, I. tingitana, and I. latifolia. 8-9cm.

Dutch Iris Mix - Among the best cutflowers, with elegant airy blooms on stiff stems; cut when buds are plump. Lovely clumped in the border. Blue, white, ivory, yellow, mauve, violet and more. 16–24" tall. LS-ESu, Z5-8.

Iris is the name of the Greek goddess of the Rainbow and of this large genus of beautiful flowers in a range of sizes and a rainbow of colors. Growing from bulbs or fleshy rhizomatous roots, irises are superb for cutting and borders. For all iris, "standards" are the three erect petals; "falls" are the three pendent, reflexed or spreading petals. The blaze of contrasting color is the "crest," "blotch" or "signal."

Most irises prefer sun or dappled shade with moderately fertile well-drained soil. All bulbous irises on this page prefer dry soils when dormant in summer.

Narcissus

Narcissus, also known as daffodils, are found around the foundations of abandoned homesteads because they return year after year as long as the soil is well drained and the foliage is allowed to die back naturally every season. Deer and other critters are unlikely to eat them, as they are toxic to animals and people. Cheerful and reliable for beds, borders, cutflowers, forcing, and naturalizing.

Narcissus thrive in full sun and some (where noted in descriptions) do well in dappled shade. Pink, orange and red varieties hold their color longest with dappled shade or during cool wet springs. In a dry season, water late varieties in midspring to ensure bloom. Hardy in Zones 3-8, except where noted. 12-14cm bulb size, unless specified.

Daffodils in Mixed Arrangements

Daffodils make great cutflowers, and last a long time in the vase, but the freshly cut stems exude a sap that clogs the pores of other types of flowers. If you want a mixed arrangement, place the freshly cut daffodil stems in a container of cool water to soak for 10-12 hours before mixing them with others.

Are they Daffodils, Jonquils or Narcissi? Yes!

A friend said he'd been confused by the different terms he'd heard to describe these familiar flowers.

They are all in the genus Narcissus, so calling them that is perfectly fine, just as we say Crocus or Iris.

Narcissus, Narcissuses and Narcissi are all acceptable as the plural, so use the one you like.

'Daffodil' was first used in Wales and England to refer to certain wild forms. It is now used to refer either specifically to the Trumpets, or generally to mean any type of Narcissus.

'Jonquil' is also used to refer generally to any type of Narcissus, especially in the South where jonquils thrive. Horticulturists use it to refer to the wild Narcissus jonquilla and its progeny, the Jonquilla class of cultivars.

So, really, all of these terms are fine.

Critters Don't Like Daffodils

The late renowned orchardist Michael Phillips recommended planting daffodils in the orchard to deter mice and voles from girdling trees. For established trees, you may need to plant farther from the trunk to work around the roots and get to proper planting depth.

Planting Bulbs

All the outdoor bulbs we offer are suitable for growing in Maine and the rest of the Northeast. If you don't know your hardiness zone, check with your local cooperative extension. Also remember that you can use rock walls and heavy mulch to shift conditions to your advantage.

Note for Zones 8-11 only: Our bulbs are not prechilled. Almost all the bulbs we carry require a cold dormancy period in order to bloom. If you live in one of these warmer zones, you must refrigerate (38–45°) your bulbs for 2–3 months before planting during your coolest season. You can chill them in their packaging; keep them away from fruit and don't let them freeze.

Planning and Planting

Bulbs are easy to work with, very rewarding and forgiving. They look best planted in groups or clumps, naturalized in the sod, under trees, or in beds, borders or rock garden. Good drainage is essential; bulbs will grow poorly or rot if too wet.

Prepare beds by mixing a bulb fertilizer, bonemeal and wood ashes, or other phosphorus and potassium sources into the soil below the level of the bulbs. We recommend our own Vegemighty Planting Mix (see page 45.) It's free of animal byproducts, and also approved for organic growers (unlike the widely available Holland Bulb Booster). Mix in compost to lighten heavy soils and increase nutrients. Peat is acidic—use with caution.

Plant bulbs pointed side up; generally the depth of the hole is three times the bulb's height. See chart for suggested planting depth and spacing. Topdress the bed with compost.

Mulch your bulbs with 4–6" of leaves, bark, straw, etc. after the ground freezes. If you plant them against the house, it's especially important to really heap on the mulch, as basement heat and reflected sunlight will likely remove the insulating snow cover, exposing them too early to alternating sunny days and freezing nights and damaging their growth tips.

Wherever they're planted, bulbs need insulation. You need to mulch (or plant extra-deep) unless winter will provide a consistent heavy snow cover. A good mulch can also give protection up to half a hardiness zone, enabling you to experiment with bulbs not quite hardy in your zone.

Do not remove the mulch too early in the spring. By keeping the soil from thawing, mulch prevents heaving and false starts in early warm spells, and delays flowering slightly for a more uniform and longer-lasting display. Remove mulch as the growth tips begin to peek through, and dress the bed with compost or bulb fertilizer.

Pinch the blooms as they fade to discourage seed production and force the energy back into the bulb. This is especially important for tulips and hyacinths, which can otherwise lose their flowering vigor in 2–3 years.

Do not cut the foliage as long as it remains green; it produces the food for the bulb's future blooms. Cut leaves only after they yellow. Sidedress with fertilizer or compost in late summer to mid-fall.

‡ Corms: soak 8–12 hours before planting.

Use deeper depths for colder areas and when planting in sandy soils.

Troubleshooting

If squirrels, chipmunks or voles are a problem, try chicken wire or sharp gravel placed in the ground above and surrounding the bulbs.

Blood meal repels many critters, but it may also repel people and attract dogs, skunks or raccoons. Or plant Narcissus, Allium, Fritillaria or Ipheion, which critters don't generally bother.

To disrupt squirrels' ability to "smell out" the bulbs in new plantings, we heavily dust the ground in those areas with black pepper and ground cloves right after planting in the fall and again in the spring when growth first emerges. The odor in the yard, reminiscent of chai, is a nice touch for us.

If after several years your bulbs produce leaves but not flowers, they may be suffering from overcrowding (dig in autumn, separate and replant), insufficient sun (move to new location), under-nourishment (sidedress thoroughly) or marginal zone hardiness (give to a friend farther south).

Novelties & Specialties

The Royal General Bulbgrowers Association in Holland (KAVB) puts this large group of diverse flowers into a boring catch-all category: Miscellaneous Bulbs. The expensive catalogs call them accent bulbs; some call them minor or dwarf bulbs (even though some of the fritillaries are huge!); Louise Beebe Wilder covered most in her 1936 classic Adventures with Hardy Bulbs. Whatever you call them, most are sweet, colorful, and completely welcome in spring.

The Low Border Collection - Our playful selection includes more than 100 bulbs to brighten up your spring garden. See full description on page 12. Fedco exclusive collection!

6469 A: one collection, 110 bulbs for $49.00

Camassia - Camas

Sometimes called Indian Hyacinth. Spikes of delicate 6-petaled blossoms open sequentially from the bottom up above lush strappy foliage. Blooms after most spring flowers are gone but before early summer flowers peak. Deer and rodent resistant. Prefers moist fertile soil around ponds, in light woods, or in the garden, and has the potential to naturalize. Full to partial sun. LS-ESu.

Camas Lily - C. quamash - Silvery medium-blue small cup-shaped flowers on strong stalks. This North American native was a dietary staple of the Nez Perce, Cree and Blackfoot tribes. The name camas comes from the Nez Perce word for 'sweet.' Formerly C. esculenta, it's listed on Slow Foods' Ark of Taste. 12-16" tall, Z4-8. 6cm/up.

6457 A: 10 for $8.50 B: 50 for $32.00
C: 200 for $115.00

Camas Lily 'Alba' - C. leichtlinii

Creamy-white-petaled mauve-anthered 2" star-shaped blossoms open later and on much taller stalks than the blue-flowered C. quamash. Makes a graceful companion to flowering onions and holds up well in bouquets. This is a white selection of a species native to western North America. 24-36" tall, Z3-7. 14-16cm.

6459 A: 10 for $19.00
B: 50 for $82.00

Wild in southeastern Europe and Turkey, in scrub meadows and rocky crevices. 3-6" tall. ES-MS, Z5-9. 5cm/up.

Bellevia paradoxa - Giant Grape Hyacinth

Dense bud spikes are greenish teal at the top and navy blue at the bottom. Florets open deep purple, growing a narrow yellowish bottom rim as the flower matures. Strap-shaped grey-green 8-18" leaves. Attractive to bees but not to deer. Excellent fragrant little outflowers. Differs from Muscari in that the florets are slightly bell-shaped, not rounded, and the flower and plant are larger. Needs well-drained soil, sun to light shade. Allow the leaves to die back naturally to feed the bulb. Original range is the Caucasus from eastern Turkey to Iran. 8-12" tall. MS-LS, Z5-8. 6cm/up.

Chionodoxa - Glory-of-the-Snow

Native to woods and mountains of Crete, Cyprus and western Turkey. 4–8" tall. ES, Z3-8. 5cm/up.

Good naturalized under deciduous trees and shrubs, can spread by seed. Prefers slightly alkaline, humusy moist soil in sun or dappled shade. Tolerant of frosts and late snows. Soak corms 8–12 hours before planting. 2–4" tall. VE, Z5-7. 4cm/up.

Fritillaria - Mission Bells

Bell-like flowers in a variety of colors and sizes, often with the subtle checkered pattern that gives rise to the name of the genus (fritillus is a dice-box, in Latin).

Guinea-Hen Flower - F. meleagris - Checkered 1½" flowers in a mix of colors, mostly plum or bronze, with some lilac-pink or white. Delicate single bells hang on slender grey-green grasslike stems. Will spread in a well-drained sheltered spot; also suitable in borders, grassy or humusy areas. Also called Checkered Lily and Snake's Head Fritillary. Native to Europe where it grows all over in meadows and along streams. 10–14" tall. MS, Z3-8. 6cm/up.

Large basal whorl of glossy leaves. Plant the bulb sideways to prevent crown rot. Long-lived if left undisturbed in a good planting site. Prefers full sun and rich well-drained soil high in organic matter—it's a heavy feeder. Critter resistant. In cultivation since 1500s, native from northern India to Iran. 26–32" tall. MS, Z3-7. 20cm. NEW!

Galanthus - Snowdrops

Frosty white 3-petaled bells with a touch of emerald green on the shorter inner segments. Snowdrops are usually one of the first signs of life emerging from the melting snow, often before the crocuses. Delicate looking, but strong, very hardy and long-lasting, standing up to late snows, frosts and stiff spring winds. Grows particularly well under deciduous trees where exposure to the sun is full in early spring but gradually changes to part shade as the trees leaf out. Tolerates moist soil; a cool spot in a woodland garden is perfect. Can naturalize in border or lawn. Deer and rodent resistant. Grows wild in open woods from the Pyrenees to the Caucasus. Z3-8.

Galanthus elwesii - Taller than the common snowdrop with larger flowers and is earlier to emerge in spring helping to stretch out the snowdrop season. Large milky white nodding pendent blooms, with an emerald green marking on the inner petals. This award-winning 1874 heirloom is the best variety for naturalizing and is also well suited to forcing. 5-8" tall. VE. 6cm. BACK!

6501 A: 10 for $9.50 B: 50 for $39.00
C: 200 for $149.00

Galanthus nivalis - This is the classic white single petal Common Snowdrop. Often one of the first flowers here in central Maine, these are a well-known and delightful sign that spring really is on its way. This resilient variety easily naturalizes over time and is well suited to forcing. 4-6" tall. VE. 5-6cm.

Bulb Genera Generally Unattractive to Critters

Allium	Hyacinthus
Camassia	Ipeion
Chionodoxa	Leucojum
Eranthis	Muscari
Fritillaria	Narcissus
Galanthus	Puschkinia
Hyacinthoides	Scilla

Nothing is guaranteed when the critters are starving. However, the most reliably resistant to depredation are Allium, Fritillaria and Narcissus.

Hyacinthoides non-scripta English Bluebells

Flax-blue, sweetly scented flowers have 1/2-3/4" petals with curled-back tips. Graceful arching racemes with flowers on one side grow 4-8" above glossy green leaves. Similar to Scilla, but taller, with larger flowers, and later to bloom. Self-seeds and forms new bulbs each year to replace old ones that shrivel. Some gardeners occasionally experience skin irritations on contact with flowers or foliage. Tolerate shade, moisture and a wide range of soils, and also do well in full sun. Native to western Europe and England, where bluebells bloom under deciduous trees not yet leafed out to form beautiful "bluebell woods." 12-18" tall. MS. Z5-8. 6cm/up.

6455 A: 10 for $8.00
B: 50 for $32.00
C: 200 for $115.00

Ipeion uniflorum - Spring Starflower Mix

Starry 1" flowers, strongly honey scented, in a mix of colors: pale blue, medium blue, yellow, bluish-white and violet. Several single-flowered stems arise from each critter-resistant tuber. Easy and attractive, performs best when slightly crowded. Grass-like leaves emerge in fall, make good edging, and smell like garlic only if crushed. Excellent in rock garden or front of the border, good in pots or naturalized in moist but well-drained soil, full sun to partial shade. Formerly named Tritelia uniflora. Native to Uruguay and Argentina. 4-6" tall. MS-LS, Z5-10. 3cm/up.

6513 A: 20 for $8.00
B: 100 for $32.00
C: 400 for $120.00

Leucojum aestivum var. Gravetye Giant Summer Snowflake

Pure white bells with scalloped edges and green spots resemble Snowdrops, but the flowers are twice as big and bloom a month later, and the plant is three times as tall. Summer Snowflake has 5-9 faintly violet-scented flowers per stem, evoking giant lilies-of-the-valley. Blooms for several weeks. Will spread in a damp—but not wet—location; prefers heavy soil and bright light, but not direct sun. Plant bulbs promptly lest they dry out. Also called Lodden Lily. Species is native from Ireland to the Caucasus; Gravetye Manor was the home and laboratory of William Robinson, 19th-century botanist and author of The Wild Garden. 18-36" tall. MS-LS, Z4-9. 12-13cm.

6535 A: 5 for $8.75
B: 25 for $34.00
C: 100 for $120.00

Muscari - Grape Hyacinth

Distinctive pyramidal spikes of fragrant long-lasting densely packed bells, like upside-down grape clusters. Makes attractive borders, edging, or brightly colored filler between other bulbs. They thrive and increase except in damp or shady areas. Divide when dormant in summer. Do not cut their autumn leaves or they will lose vigor.

‘Pearls of Spain’ - M. botryoides - Sweetly perfumed pure white bells. Slender racemes show best when closely planted. 4–6" tall. MS, Z3-8. 5cm/up.

6537 A: 20 for $11.00 B: 100 for $46.00
C: 400 for $149.00

6539 A: 20 for $11.00 B: 100 for $46.00
C: 400 for $149.00

Muscari armeniacum - Bright cobalt-blue florets with subtle white rims; good for forcing, cutting, naturalizing and filling in the border. Fragrant. The most commonly grown Muscari and a great counterpoint to all the other spring bulb colors. Blooms at least two weeks, and three weeks for us in cool springs. 6–8" tall. MS, Z4-9. 8-9cm.

6541 A: 20 for $8.75 B: 100 for $36.00
C: 400 for $96.00

Plant in full sun or light shade as drifts, in borders, or under trees.

Very hardy and easy to naturalize.

For some it spreads slowly, others find it quickly forms colonies. Also called Russian Snowdrop and Early Stardrift. Native from the Caucasus to Lebanon, especially in grasslands near the snow line. 4–6" tall. ES, Z3-8. 5cm/up.

6645 A: 10 for $5.00
B: 50 for $20.00
C: 200 for $65.00

Scilla siberica* - Siberian Squill

Loose clusters of delicate pendent bells with a very long bloom time. Prefers cool places, in short grass, under shrubs, deciduous trees or even the shady side of a cedar hedge. May be the most shade-tolerant bulb but also performs well in sun if the soil's not too dry. Amazingly hardy and an excellent naturalizer. Beloved by bees. 6–8" tall. ES, Z2-8.

Siberian Squill - Bright flax-blue bells. Very prolific, can form great drifts. Lightly scented. Watch the bees collect the blue pollen. 7-8cm.

6643 A: 10 for $5.75

Peonies Paeonia lactiflora

Reliable, long-lived hardy herbaceous perennial native from Tibet to Siberia. The red to forest-green shoots appear in midspring and form a bushy clump of lustrous dark green deeply lobed foliage that makes a lovely hedge or backdrop to the flower garden.

Big spherical buds on sturdy stems gradually open from late spring to early summer, transforming into huge stunning blooms. Peonies require support to keep the heavy blossoms from flopping. For long-lasting cutflowers, harvest when buds are soft like marshmallows but not quite open.

Ants on peony buds are normal, so leave them alone. While the ants collect sticky nectar, they also protect the peonies against insect pests. Before you bring cuts indoors, dunk them in a bucket of water to rinse off the ants.

Plant 2-3' apart with eyes no more than 1-1½" below the surface in deep, fertile, moist but well-drained soil, in full sun to partial shade. Plants may take 3-5 years to establish before blooming and are sensitive to disturbance during that time. LS-ESu, Z3-8. U.S.-grown roots with 2-3 eyes, unless otherwise noted.

'Alexander Fleming' - Among the hotter pink peonies. Fully double flowers have intense fragrance and very pink petals that lighten toward the edges. Blossoms on strong stems are nestled among and above the vibrant forest-green foliage, provide a fetching color contrast. Multiple side buds bloom over a long season. 28-30" tall. Midseason blooms. BACK!

6630 A: 1 for $8.50
B: 3 for $24.00

'Big Ben' - This tall robust highly fragrant peony is a classic, with long-lasting double 5-6" cherry-red to dark pink blooms atop sturdy stems that do not require support. Extended bloom time due to its numerous side buds. A great performer in both the South and the North. 34-36" tall. Early blooming. NEW!

6631 A: 1 for $8.50
B: 3 for $24.00

'Karl Rosenfield' - A marvelous double flower of rare beauty. Large bright crimson blooms on strong stems are a great choice for cutflowers and showy garden beds. A magnificent variety worth traveling miles to see when in full bloom. Not fragrant. 28-33" tall. Midseason blooms.

B: 3 for $24.00

One of the world's most beloved flowers, garden tulips have captivated hearts and inspired artists for centuries with their vibrant colors and elegant forms. Originating from the Ottoman Empire, these enchanting bulbs found their way to the Netherlands in the 16th century where they sparked an economic frenzy known as "Tulip Mania" after being identified as symbols of wealth and prosperity.

Tulips continue to enchant gardeners and enthusiasts alike with their versatility and charm. Their kaleidoscope of colors and shapes in the spring makes them ideal for a wide range of garden designs and arrangements. Whether planted in beds, borders or containers, tulips bring a touch of elegance and joy to any landscape. Most varieties are also good for cutting, and many are good for forcing. See our tulip comparison chart for further reference.

To help protect your tulips from marauding critters, try interplanting with genera that are unattractive to pests, like Allium, Fritillaria and Narcissus.

Garden Tulips are hardy in Zones 3-7, unless otherwise noted. All our tulip bulbs measure at least 12cm, unless specified.

Planting Tulips for Longevity

Some gardeners treat tulips like annuals and buy new ones every year, while others painstakingly dig their bulbs up in summer after the foliage has browned and store them to replant in the fall.

If (like us) you are thrifty and/or lazy, there's an easier way to encourage tulips to come back year after year. Choose a sunny location and plant the bulbs 8-10" deep (yes, that deep!) in well-drained soil, 3-4 weeks before the ground freezes.

During spring growth, check the soil weekly if there is little rain, and water if 1/2" below the surface is dry. Deadhead to force the plant's energy into the bulb. Don't cut or tie the foliage until it has begun to yellow. Overplant with annuals or perennials to help keep the soil dry down where the bulb is.

Species Tulips Tulipa

The original wild tulips from the center of tulip diversity in central Asia, and their cultivars which still have a "wild" look. Our stock is nursery-propagated from commercial sources and is not collected in the wild. Once established with good drainage, these tend to perennialize (or naturalize) unlike many of the big hybrid tulips. Most species tulips are not tall, showy or formal, but they have their own halfling charms.

'Danique' - Rosy and salmon petals are more saturated at the edges and open to charcoal centers edged in pale yellow for splendid contrast. Petite and starry, Danique sends up multiple blooms per bulb and can perennialize well when it's happy. 6-8" tall. MS-LS, Z3-8. 6cm/up.

Planting Auger Tired of being hunched over with a trowel? Quickly plug in hundreds of flowerbulbs for a naturalized look in your landscape! Works with most corded and modern cordless drills. (Manufacturer recommends any corded drill, 3/8" or larger. For cordless, use a 1/2" drill with at least 18 volts of power.) There are many garden augers on the market, but we chose this one because it's sturdy, made in the USA, and the end that you insert in the drill chuck is a continuation of the shaft (rather than a separate piece welded on, which tends to break off). Auger diameter 2 3/4"; overall length 24". Additional shipping charges apply—web orders only.

Fedco Planting Mixes

Vegemighty (3.4-2.2-3.5) An excellent all-purpose slow-release fertilizer for those who prefer to avoid animal products. Great for flowerbulbs because it won't attract critters. Use 1-2 tsp per transplant (or bulb) mixed into the loosened soil below planting depth, or at 5#/50 sq ft as a top-dressing. Blended in-house from soybean meal, rock phosphate, organic alfalfa meal, sulfate of potash and kelp meal. Does not contain brewers' yeast extract, and may or may not encourage the adoption of an Australian accent. No NH sale. MOFGA-approved for organic use. Additional shipping charges apply—web orders only.

web only - 5# for $12.50

3G Greener Garlic Grower (3-3.5-3.5 avg, plus sulfur) We designed a special Fedco mix to meet the nutrient requirements of garlic. 3G is about the fastest data speed you can expect in much of rural Maine, but we like life in the slow lane. We don't mind planting garlic in October and waiting until August to reap our pungent harvest. With 3G Greener Garlic Grower, you can expect better spring emergence, more vigorous plants, bigger bulbs and richer flavor. Blended in-house from sulfur, alfalfa meal, bone char, zeolites, sulfate of potash, feather meal and neem cake. On balanced soils, apply 1 Tbsp per clove for small plantings; or 100#/1000 row ft banded in-row. If you like gardening even more than cat videos, try 3G. If you're ready for an upgrade, check out 8319 5G Garlic Growing Kit (see page 7). No NH sale. MOFGA-approved for organic use. Additional shipping charges apply—web orders only.
